

SOULFIRE

THEATRE

SoulFire Theatre was set up to create theatre in those communities that don't have a strong theatrical voice or tradition. It is particularly aimed at young people and children in Tower Hamlets and East London. SoulFire Theatre is about experimentation and innovation - boldness and imagination are required.

The Project

There is intense national debate in both France and Britain about the way forward for integration despite their differing political approaches. Young people from ethnic minority communities should be at the forefront of these debates.

The project aims to bring together young people from diverse backgrounds in Tower Hamlets, London and La Goutte d'Or, Paris to compare experiences about identity, place and belonging.

Workshop

There will be a two-day rap/spoken workshop at the RICH MIX for young people aged 18-26. These workshops will be free with lunch and travel expenses provided. Young people will work with a team of professional artists from London and Paris. There will be an opportunity to perform at the launch event of the installation 'PERIPHERICAL COMMUNITIES' on 3rd May 2011. The event will be filmed.
